Ace Technology Partners has been a leading supplier of technology to schools since 1983; schools trust the company for the best technology at the best price.

CHICAGO, U.S., April 22, 2019 Ace Technology Partners, a premier Chicago-based education technology provider for more than 35 years, offers everything from PCs, notebooks, tablets, tinies, 2-in-1s, servers, scanners, printers, engineering workstations, carts and more. The benefits of working with Ace Technology Partners include:

- Technology that is easy-to-deploy, easy-to-use, and durable
- Cost-competitive pricing
- A central Midwest location for efficient, U.S.-based tech support
- More than 35 years of experience supplying technology to schools
- An excellent reputation in the K-12 education community

Ace Technology Partners has been a leading supplier of technology to schools since 1983; schools from K-12 through the world's leading universities trust the company for the best technology at the best price.

Ace Technology Partners CEO John Samborski said, "Our long-term education clients will confirm that we are the most reliable, experienced school technology providers that they have worked with. While this has created a robust referral network for us, it also sends the message that new clients can trust us to provide the finest technology at the best price; and, just as important, that we will continue to back it with outstanding support from our Greater Chicago headquarters."

Another value add is that the company's affiliate, Ace Computers, which has been building technology to the demanding specifications of the government and military for 35 years, offers its own house-branded desktops with the same or superior quality as leading brands and an outstanding warranty. As a highest-level partner with key suppliers including Intel, AMD, Microsoft, NVIDIA and others, Ace Computers' engineering team stays on top of innovations that deliver the performance and value schools require. This technology is secured and built for/used by DoD and Civilian Federal Agencies
